BEGINNINGS FOR BULLDOGS

"Twenty-five, thirty, thirty, twenty-five, thirty — Sold! to number 126. Thank you, ma'am." The sounds of Field Day, a 91-year NA tradition and a two-day extravaganza of food and fun for adults and students alike. Aye, matey, this was the year for pirate booty, a vacation in St. Croix, or a chest of gold for lucky auction-goers on Friday night. The excitement continued on Saturday, with the annual 5-K Run and the Sunrise Breakfast for Country Store enthusiasts. 9:30, the magic hour, when hundreds of people swarmed into the Burroughs Gym to hunt for treasure, crafts, and all types of food. And when 11:00 came, the laughter emanating from the Midway drew hundreds of spectators and participants to see the wonders wrought by the Middle School students and their game booths. Only the role-reversal Dunk the Masters game could outdo the fascination of the other events. For faculty, administration, and select seniors, the Dunk has become a foregone conclusion. For excited ballthrowers, dousing a "favorite" teacher was the culmination of many months of eager planning. For the more sedate, the auditorium offered two performances of the pirate play put on by Lower School mates. Also in attendance was Dave Checcino, back for his yearly stint as auctioneer. As 3:00 drew near, sights were set on the moment of truth, the all-important ticket drawing. As everyone sat poised with lists of numbers and tickets spread out, the drawing began and lucky winners came to claim their various prizes. With the final number, tickets flew, and Field Day was over until 1983.

The Lower School Field Day Play provides entertainment for the audience as well as fun for the participants.

LAVENDER AND LACE

Chrysler Hall becomes a land of romance where dreams come true

Junior Class President Amy Moss finally relaxes as the product of a year's labor smoothly unfolds.

Waitresses Stefanie Trickler and Carey Shoemaker, decked out in Victorian style, add to the old-fashioned atmosphere.

What could be more fun than spending an entire year baking, planning, nagging, worrying and working? Ask any member of the Class of '83, and he or she will respond "ANYTHING!!" So it went for the Juniors as they labored hard and long to raise enough money for the Prom. Their efforts certainly paid off, for "Lavender and Lace" was a total success. Chrysler Hall was transformed into a mid-Victorian world of romance and beauty thanks to the work of the Decorations Committee. What the beautiful decorations and lovely evening could not fully convey, however, were the long hours of preparation that went into the event — the tons of sugar and flour involved in the weekly bake sale extravaganzas and the labor that went into the dinners and bus trips. And these were just the tip of the iceberg! But labor they did, and in the process, 89 individuals became a cohesive unit working toward a common goal.

GOING OUT IN STYLE

Class of '82 loses their marbles

From the moment the procession of seniors entered the gym to the moment they filed out as graduates, Commencement '82 was a memorable occasion. Patricia Wallace and Scott Casper, as the senior girl and boy who demonstrated the highest degree of leadership based upon the influence of character, were honored with the Virginia Ellis Talbot and S. Barron Segar Awards. Lucy Schwan received the Class of 1952 Award for her outstanding senior speech, and Perrie Taylor and Daniel Becker delivered valedictory addresses. At this point in the commencement exercises, the Class of '82 deviated from the course of tradition. As Mr. Tucker awarded the diplomas, each student handed him a marble. As he fumbled with the slippery gifts, the graduates delighted in his confusion. To top it all off, several male graduates slung jackets over shoulders, donned hats and "shades," and clenched cigars in their teeth as they exited the gym. There was no question that the Class of '82 had graduated in characteristic style. Just as in the Upper School, Lower School graduation was a one-of-a-kind occasion. Since the seventh grade would move up to Royster next year, Smith-Hofheimer graduated two classes, the sixth and seventh grades. The Lower School speech award went to Anna Mastracco and Todd Ricketts. Mr. Tucker presented Jeff Martin with the Vickery Alfrend Award as the outstanding boy in Lower School, based on scholarship, character, leadership, and citizenship. Tyler Pender was honored with the Bess Moore Citizenship Award.

MIDSUMMER MADNESS

While most NA students headed for the beach at the first sign of summer, many explored new faces and new places here and abroad. The school-sponsored Humanities trip attracted eleven eager travelers who visited museums and cathedrals in England, France, Switzerland, Italy, Austria, and Germany. Traveling by what chaperones Miss Mays and Miss Holmes called "the ankle express" as well as by countless buses, trains, and subways, the eleven, as Dawn Lucci put it, "had an educational and crazy time and made many memories for years to come." Cay Rabinowitz spent her summer in France with the Students Abroad program. "It was a good language experience for me," she commented. "Being there for six weeks gave me a real taste of the people and the country." Closer to home, Stacey Smith was a counselor at Timber Ridge Camp in West Virginia. "It was a small camp, so everyone was really close," she said. "After two months, it was hard to say goodbye to summer friends." Dana Myers, Katie Brown, Eric Grosfils, Mary Chapman, Kim Wilcox, John Syer, and Fred Babcock took trips coordinated by Wilderness Ventures. While John visited Jackson Hole, Wyoming, and Fred explored the Rocky Mountains, the rest of the group took the Northwest Expedition, hiking and rafting in Washington, Oregon, and Wyoming, and climbing Mt. Rainier. They all agreed with Eric Grosfils, who noted that "It was the best summer of my life!"

There is no doubt that Mary loves her work as a Allegheny counselor.

The oldest summer activity on the NA campus, camp begins at 9:00 each morning as six yellow busses release their restless captives to the care of the camp staff. The average day includes assemblies, snack time, crafts, and swimming lessons for Tadpoles, Minnows, Sharks, and Dolphins. Then — finally — lunch! Counselors rush to mooch sandwiches, chips and Twinkies from unsuspecting but generous six-year-olds. After lunch, it's time for the Clean Table contest and movies. The day still holds two more activity periods, free swim, and Bus Lineup. Ah yes, Day Camp — a Norfolk Academy tradition, one that will, as Simon says, hold fond memories for one and all.

TRAVEL INTO THE PAST

An "Enchanted Trolley" seems an unlikely vehicle to travel through Norfolk — but travel it did, from past to present. Thanks to writer Maria Latona and the Norfolk Academy Arts, Tidewater residents this summer were able to enjoy a brief history of Norfolk in the form of an original multi-media production. Academy Arts presented "The Great Tricentennial Time Trolley Show" on July 28th at the Center Theater. Grants from the Norfolk Tricentennial Commission and the Tidewater Children's Foundation made the production possible. Other major contributors to the production were skilled instructors and directors such as Janet Stanford, Janice Warren, Vince Brown, Linda Decker, and Sandra Black. The performers themselves were students in grades six through twelve. The story connects present day Norfolk to its past and its future. Author Maria Latona commented that "Norfolk is a city with a unique personality shaped significantly by geography, history, and spirited people. Despite hardships and setbacks, Norfolk has displayed the determination to grow while remaining mindful of its heritage. That is our theme." This imaginative journey on the Time Trolley proved to be a creative, enjoyable, and educational way to celebrate Norfolk's 300th birthday. All the Norfolk Academy students involved were impressed by the professional handling of the production as well as the amount of fun each performer had. As Katherine Wallace noted, "It was a great way to spend the summer." All agreed that this was certainly the best way to learn history!

PRE-SCHOOL PREPARATIONS

No rest for the weary even during the summer months

Coach Shisler illustrates proper hockey technique to Liza Ryan, Lisa Hume, Julie Trant, Denise Katsias, and Alicia Scott during a summer practice session.

No sooner had the 1982 academic year ended in June than the faculty, administration, and staff began making preparations for the following year. First and foremost on the agenda was the completion of the Royster addition to accomodate the inclusion of the seventh grade into the Middle School. Several new classrooms, a locker area, and a spacious computer room were among the new facilities planned. Additional work was also to go on in the Lower School to allow for further expansion of programs. Labor of a less pleasant variety also had to begin. Repainting lockers, scraping gum from desk tops, fixing broken chairs, waxing floors, cleaning locker rooms, and painting walls were just a few of the tasks needing attention. As the summer wore on and August rapidly drew closer, activity really went into high gear. Varsity and junior varsity teams began reporting for practice, and groans and grunts became the order of the day. Old teachers began trickling in to decorate the classrooms and start planning for the year. A bevy of new faces was seen as new teachers reported for orientation meetings. On August 19th, the annual Leadership Seminar took place as student and faculty leaders representing all three divisions of the school met to discuss the coming year. The book sale came next, and as students found out who their various teachers would be, both groans and laughter could be heard. All these activities were leading toward one certain and unalterable end that was approaching too rapidly — the beginning of the 1983 academic year at NA.

School opens in a flurry of activity

Below: Lower Schoolers Robby Wilson, Danny Pearlman, and Andrew Casper are ready to face anything, even the first day of school.

"But August 30th is still summer; school shouldn't start until the fall, at least September!!" Complain as they may, students still couldn't turn back the clock or delay the inevitable. Yes, school had begun, and to make the change even more sudden, it started on a 42° August day! The busses had begun their runs at — UGH — 7:15 in order to get the students to school before the 8:20 bell. From anxious first graders to the insouciant senior "veterans," students arrived with piles of books and first-day jitters, ready to face the challenge of a new year. A feeling of warmth and hospitality was generated by the cheerleaders, who lined the walkways to welcome everyone to school. The first day of school meant seeing old friends, meeting new classmates, and relating stories about the good times of summer. This year's opening was additionally special in that it saw the introduction of seventh graders into the Middle School with the addition of a new wing to the Royster building. The Lower School had also been added to and these rooms stood ready to welcome occupants. Still, all this excitement did have its drawbacks — no more sleeping until noon, catching those sun rays or ocean waves, or feeling free and easy. With this new beginning, however, students could erase last year's slates and start fresh with new teachers, new courses, and a new countdown until June 8, 1983.

CORRECTING CHAOS

Elizabeth Outland enjoys Mr. Perry's "blowing his own horn" to signal the passing of weeks during Fast Forward Day.

"Let's see — on the first Wednesday I have Keyettes, and on the third Wednesday, Spanish Club, and the fourth Monogram Club. Or is that Spanish on the fourth and Monogram on the third? No, it's Spanish on the third and Monogram fourth. Right. Now on Thursdays, I have IRC the first and the third weeks. Okay. So I'm in study hall on all my Tuesdays and Fridays. That means I need third category activities for Monday and the second and fourth Thursdays, I think . . . Sound like a social schedule for a queen?

This was seventh bell, the new and different system masterminded to fill just one hour of the day — for every student in Tunstall. Obviously not an easy task for the creator of the project or for those who had to remember which day of what week it was. But the system did accomplish its purposes to cut down on seventh bell chaos and to decrease the number of AWOL students. Activities ran the gamut from Shislercizes to Flag Football. Added to these were the normal activities offered. The highlight of the whole process came on "Fast Forward Day," when students went through a simulated four-week period in just one hour! As Mr. Perry roamed the halls blowing his horn to signal the end of each week, students madly scurried from room to room. All worked out well in the end however, for at the end of the fall season seniors were given back their independent study and students in general discovered that planned activities did indeed add a bit of spice to the normally dry seventh period.

New 7th bell activities suit all tastes

IN THE NEWS

Many NA students have been in the news this year. In early August, the Academy Arts program presented a play celebrating Norfolk's Tricentennial. Starring Wendy Kesser and Billy Culverhouse, this extravaganza showed the travel of a time trolley through 300 years of Norfolk's history. Later in August the varsity football team began its practice. One part included a warm-up and stretching session held in the dance room. In November during the Optimists' Club Youth Appreciation Week, Elizabeth Outland and Steve Hellberg were nominated as NA's outstanding seniors and Hellberg was voted the outstanding boy in the contest. Additionally, there were sports stories and photographs of Garth Forsyth, Kurt Hammerle, Richard Crawford, and the volleyball team.

THE CONCERT CALENDAR

Rush in concert!

Jodie Foster's Army and The Dead Kennedys hardly appear to be associated with music, but they really are. These punk groups are among the vast and varied catalogue of NA students' favorite music — punk, New Wave, pop, rock, beach, and soul. Fortunately for all, the year's concert calendar had something for everyone, no matter what his taste. "New Wave" music came in on the crest of last year's popularity and continued to hold a strong following, evident in the number of Duran-Duran, Flock of Seagulls, Romantics, and Police devotees. Members of this crowd enjoyed shows by the Ramones, Oingo-Boingo, Adam and the Ants, and Squeeze, highlighted by a mass turnout for the Clash. Rock fans went to see Fleetwood Mac, the Stray Cats, Eric Clapton, and good ol' Jethro Tull. The highlight of the year's events was Rush, a sold-out hey-day for demi-gods. Soul fans, after snatching up Michael's new album, turned out for Prince and Diana Ross. Although concerts this year were numerous, they failed to satisfy seniors, who took to the local music clubs. Many Academy students frequented the Wave, King's Head, Peabody's, and Rogue's for appearances by the X-Raves, Skip Castro, and the Good Guys. Video music provided a new dimension to the music scene. More and more students tuned in to MTV and many more turned out for a video concert by The Who. To the delight of these video fans, the ever-popular Stones released a movie of their 1981 tour, entitled "Let's Spend the Night Together." Shirra Leavitt, creator of the Stones banner shown here, as usual won free tickets to the premier. Yes, with its concert scene, vibrant club life, and video music world, 1983 was a time of fun as the year's events provided a sound for all seasons.

VIDEO GAMES PAC' EM IN

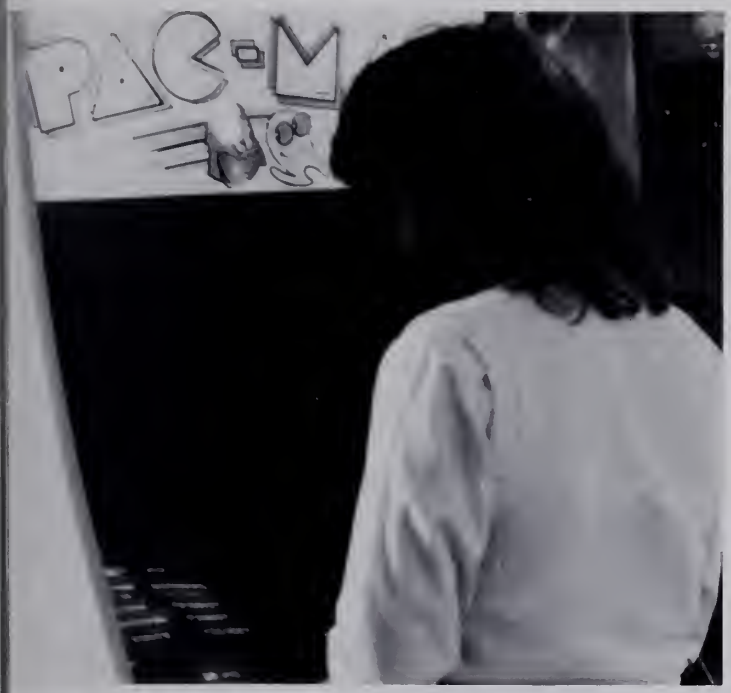

We have been invaded! Pac-Man, Centipedes, and Galaxians of the world are well on their way to taking over the entertainment industry, leaving pool tables and pinball machines in their wake. Quarters pour into machines, eyes glaze over, and fingers fly over the controls as the video invasion continues unabated. For the addicted, video games require lots of time and lots of money. Many a fanatic has entered a game room intending to spend "only a dollar" and left with empty pockets. The only cure for this "video-fever", which by now has reached epidemic proportions, lies in the games themselves: seeing those two dreaded words flash on the screen — GAME OVER!

TAKING ON THE TYKES

While some NA students lounged on the beach this summer, Mary Barrett, Lisa Fraim, and Stevie Stecker came to school every day for six weeks, six hours a day. These dynamic girls tackled the often trying but ultimately rewarding job of being day camp counselors. They took the responsibility of entertaining around two hundred kids with NA faculty and coaches. They led activities such as Arts and Crafts and Dance, supervised games like kickball, and guarded lives during that favorite afternoon activity, "free swim." Although they had to learn how to deal with tears because of injuries or because of separation from mommies, and even though at times they hoped never again to encounter a clinging child, the girls really enjoyed their summer at NA day camp and are toying with the idea of returning next summer.

THE GLOBE TROTTERS

Amy Moss and Susan Tsao got a taste of foreign culture this summer during their visits to the "Dark Continent" and the "Land of the Rising Sun." Amy and her family had planned to take a tour of Africa with other members of a convention, but due to an attempted coup in Kenya, their arrangements had to be cancelled. Five days later, the Mosses decided to brave it alone and departed for Africa. Upon arriving in Nairda, they saw road blocks and armed soldiers everywhere and became subject to a 9:00 curfew. The Mosses left the city and the fighting behind and took a safari. They travelled unpaved roads in search of animals and had to sleep in a different place every night, even in a tent! Amy saw all kinds of animals: lions, a leopard, hyenas, and baby ostriches. Her family was also fortunate enough to catch the annual migration of thousands of wildebeasts. Amy, however, found the people more interesting than the animals. She was particularly fascinated with the Masai Tribe, with whom she traded and talked. The women elongated their ears and wore cow dung on their shaved heads as a decoration. A common drink they shared with Amy was the blood and milk of cattle, with sugar mixed in as a sweetener. Susan, as an exchange student to Japan, stayed a lot longer in her foreign environment and experienced quite a case of culture shock. She lived with the Hirai family outside Tokyo and spent most of her summer learning the language and going sightseeing and shopping. The hardest adjustments for Susan were the living conditions and the food. The Japanese sleep on futons, mats on the floor, and take off their shoes in buildings. Of course, they also eat with chopsticks. Their diet includes such delicacies as raw fish, octopus, squid, and seaweed. And as a YFU exchange student and a member of the Hirai family, Susan "did as the Japanese did" this summer. One highlight of the sojourn was her taking a bath in a public bathhouse. For a modest American, this was quite an experience!! Susan left Japan after nine weeks with many good memories and friends. When asked about her trip, Susan was enthusiastic and advocated such an experience for all.

GERMAN STUDENT JOINS NA SENIORS

Senior year is difficult for any NA student, but for a foreign student — impossible. Or so it would seem. The Class of '83 welcomed Arne Rosin, a German YFU exchange student this year. Arne said that "the level of teaching is not as high as at our German Gymnasium (school for better students)." Arne could not believe the size of the school and the student body at NA, for in Germany two students share each desk. Nor has he ever seen a school with so much "yard." Arne especially liked the great social life at NA. He also enjoyed the more disciplined class structure and the willingness of the teachers to help students. The NA faculty and student body certainly enjoyed having Arne as a member of the school and asked him to send some of his friends over to see us.

LADY BULLDOGS ROCK WITH THE CLAQUE

NA has never been known for its rousing school spirit, especially for girls' sports. During the fall season, when the girls' basketball team played, the crowd, if there was one, generally consisted of faculty and parents. This year, however, saw a small surge of spirit emerge in the senior class. A few of the boys' basketball team members showed up faithfully to support the girls. This group was most effective at the tournament where they ran on the floor with the cheerleaders and spelled out "Academy." From the basketball team and the cheerleaders, "Thanks, guys!"

SENIORS AVENGE '81 LOSS

After the "savage women" of the class of 1984 challenged the seniors for the annual powder puff football game, they took a licking from their more than savage opponents. In response to a brutal beating last year, the Class of '83 had the determination and killer instinct to triumph in this year's game. All the players agreed that most of the credit was Coach Marchionda's, Coach Renn's, and Coach Wahl's. With their expertise and great practices, they transformed a gaggle of rowdy girls into a well-oiled and powerful team. Half the fun of powder puff is the pre-game rivalry between the classes. Before the game there were chants at lunch and the pep rally led by the male cheerleaders. The excitement mounted as the players walked out onto the field. After a close first half, the seniors pulled out their best plays and dominated the game. The final result: a senior triumph, 30-14.

FREAKY FRIDAY

The list of privileges for seniors goes on and on, but on October 31, or the day closest to it, the normally sedate seniors display probably their most enjoyable privilege of all — Halloween Dress-up Day. Though they have had this privilege both in Lower School and in the ninth grade, somehow it's different this time, for seniors in their last year of high school go all out for this special day. Costumes ranged from King Kong to clusters of grapes and bunches of carrots. Hidden personalities came out as Charles Nusbaum became a punker and Christina Grandy transformed into a "little devil." Yes, this was quite different from Lower School days, definitely an unusual tradition in NA life.

LIFE IN THE SENIOR ROOM

The Class of '83 finally took over the coveted senior room this year. They got the stereo, the drink machine, and the privacy that they had been waiting for. With it they also inherited the mess, the pests, and worst of all, the smell distinctive of the premises. Probably the best word to describe the atmosphere in this room was "rambunctuous" or maybe just "hyper." It was not unusual to find senior boys grappling on the floor, winging cushions across the room, or cheering on the senior girls in that rough and tumble game of skirt grovelling. More "great" fun came during the year when the "Big D" Award entered the senior room. This large orange cone ended up on many heads and in many places during the course of the year. With all the pressures of their last year of high school, the seniors managed to find the perfect place to release all their aggressions . . . most of the time.

Time: 11:00 PM, any Wednesday night.
Place: Any Junior's house.
"Mom, I have to bake tomorrow. We don't have anything in the house."
"Sorry, dear. I'm going to bed now."
"But, Mom!!"
Ah, Wednesday night — the time when juniors begin to regret passing the tenth grade. Everyone agrees that this is the most important year of high school; however, few Academy juniors can agree which is more vital: meeting college reps or getting acquainted with Betty Crocker, surviving Bat or surviving the battle of the oven.
"Now let's see ... you turn the little dial to 350° and the big dial to bake ... or is it broil???"
Thrown in between all the culinary cataclysms are bus trips, candy sales, Rent-A-Teach, and a myriad of other activities, all designed to raise funds for the Big Event — Prom! That one night makes it all seem worthwhile. The year becomes not just a time of work but a year of fun and unity. Not just the junior year but The Year of the Junior!

SOPHOMORESSOPHOM

So, you're a sophomore? A member of the Upper School now rather than just a little Roysterite. Privileges? Surely you jest! You've just been demoted to the bottom rung of the social ladder. Ah, but despite the trials and tribulations of entering the Tunstall world come the things all Roysterites look forward to — new activities, new responsibilities, new freedoms, and, of course, independent study. "You mean we don't have to be quiet or get a note to go to the library? Hey, I think I'm gonna like it here!" Sound great? Never forget, however, that this is the year of the proof, the pig, and the paper. From Euclid to Bronte in ten easy steps (all at once, of course!) You're in the real world now, and because the sophomore year is for discovery, you are discovering just how rough it can be. But there are quite a few plusses to this year. Going to parties and fitting in, seeing all those gorgeous junior boys (or girls, as the case might be), taking advanced level courses, not having to learn grammar anymore — the list goes on and on. When it's all said and done and you find yourself a junior, chances are you'll look back and decide the sophomore year was an awfully nice time after all.

NINTHGRADENINTHGRA

To Shakespeare, the Wheel of Fortune was a very real concept. To a NA ninth grader, it is no less real. Just when you were at the top . . . This was the year of power — top dog in the Royster Building, able to push all those seventh and eighth graders around. You were almost like a senior in that you could be a president, an editor, or a table head. You could even dress up on Halloween! This was the first year that you had any say whatsoever in the courses and teachers you wanted. You had finally put behind you mythology (thank goodness!) and Latin (unless you were "scholarly" enough to take that second year). However, you had to face parallel construction, a new foreign language, and Macbeth. You had to listen to all those lectures about being the leaders of the Middle School and all those "discussions" about responsibility and maturity. The Wheel certainly did turn full circle, for just as your year ended and you thought you had survived and even succeeded, you found yourself plunged to the bottom again, this time as a lowly resident of the Upper School for the following year. Oh well, back to the drawing board!

EIGHTHGRADEEIGHTHG

We eighth graders have had a difficult year. We knew we were in trouble last year when Mr. Hudgins appeared at an assembly and said something about "accepting part of the burden of leadership" in the Middle School. I mean, really! That was the last thing we wanted to hear after a tough year leading the Lower School! But we handled it well. It wasn't easy being the first "middle class" of the Middle School. We had to keep the upstart seventh graders in their place while being pushed around by the top-dog ninth graders. Still, we managed to live through Latin, Algebra, Western Civ., Science, Health, English, and even seventh bell. Personally, I couldn't figure out what good any of that junk will ever do for me. But I learned a lot, and I had a lot of fun at break, at lunch, at the dances, and in study hall. 1982-83 was a short year — it's hard to believe that next year we'll be the top dogs trying to push a new group of eighth graders around! I wonder if that's what they mean by "progressive education"??

SEVENTHGRADESEVEN

Teachers, homework, everywhere,
Spitballs hanging from my hair.
When will Lang Arts ever end?
Hours on homework I did spend.

Mrs. Lampert and Mrs. Diggs
Do diagramming thing-ma-jigs.
And that boring history —
Mr. Ross speaks Greek to me!

Science with Ms. McAllister —
Boy, I'd like to dissect her!
Mr. L. makes math a pain;
Without that, we'd never gain.

Running up and down the hall
Sure is fun until I fall.
Eating all that slop at break
Gives me such a belly-ache!

All 9th graders slap and punch
And they steal dessert at lunch.
Why won't they leave us alone?
Mr. Dike, can I go home?

If it weren't for Mrs. P.
And her safe infirmary,
I'd have nowhere nice to go
When I'm feeling really low.

Even tho' I sure got blasted,
I did have fun while it lasted.

A NEW FACE AT THE HELM

Mr. John B. Syer takes over as Board president

July was more than just a time for sun and fun. It was the time when a new president for the Board of Trustees was elected. Mr. John Ballard Syer, president of S & N Freight Line, succeeded Mr. Josh Darden in this all-important position. Most people know Mr. Syer as the father of Virginia and John; however, he is quite a personality in his own right. An alumnus of Episcopal High School, Mr. Syer graduated from UVa. in 1961. Being an avid sports enthusiast, he played football and baseball in high school and college. He has continued his athletic pursuits and currently enjoys skiing and tennis. As the new Board chairman, Mr. Syer plans to implement the long-range plan adopted earlier in the year and to emphasize basic Academy principles. Described by John as being easy to talk to and having a good sense of humor, Mr. Syer will certainly be a vital and strong force in the future life of Norfolk Academy.

Top Right: New Board president John Syer talks over his plans for the future with Mr. Hugh Patterson and Headmaster John Tucker.

READING REMEDIES

Many juniors and seniors took September 20 and 21 off from normal classes to participate in British Communico's course in advanced reading techniques. The course was designed to improve reading efficiency by increasing speed while maintaining good comprehension. To increase their rates, students were told to read words in groups, to avoid rereading material just covered, and to avoid pronouncing words silently in the mind. To break these habits, teachers used a reading accelerator machine, eye exercises, and reading comprehension tests. As an English teacher who took the course, Mrs. Hume was fairly positive. "I felt the course was valuable in that it taught students that there are various rates for different materials. Not everything should be read with an intensity aimed at finding facts." The program also supplied students with greater confidence in their reading ability. "In my group at least," stated Mrs. Hume, the students seemed to feel better about themselves after the two-day session was completed."

Math and Computers tease the brains of NA students

In the Lower School, a computer program, equipped with 11 TRS-80 Mode III microcomputers, four printers, a network controller, and a telephone modem, was headed up and run by Mr. Reilly. Children in grades 1-6 came to computer class once a week for 45 minutes of instruction. Mr. Reilly devoted all of his time to teaching the computer class. He explained that "the students learn not only math and English skills but reasoning and logical thinking." A new computer center and computer literacy course provided the Middle and Upper School students with exposure to and expertise in computer science. The center, located in the addition to the Royster building, houses eight Apple II computers and two printers. Mr. Robert Case leads the new classes. Approximately forty students enrolled in the literacy course. Mr. Case believes that NA's computers can be a potential source of benefit to the entire Tidewater community. They were used this year in preparing the Belfry, the yearbook, and the literary magazine. Even the admissions office wants to get in on the computer facilities available. Although NA only recently began emphasizing the importance of computer literacy, Mr. Tucker has set a goal for the school: to have everyone who graduates from the Academy be at least familiar with the inner-workings of a computer.

Built several years ago, the art display flats in the Grandy Building have held art from numerous sources, ranging from the work of artist and former Academy teacher Virginia Bell to the creations of students of all ages. It continuously fills Grandy with new and different exhibits to further the art appreciation of the entire Norfolk Academy community. In the fall, Frances Kepchar, wife of the longtime NA science teacher and mother of several NA graduates, exhibited her work. Later in the spring, the display turned to Field Day and again benefited the school with the profits the art show brought. Now an integral part of the Grandy atmosphere, the continuing art exhibits will showcase artistic talent for many more years to come.

This year the Keyettes began sponsoring an underprivileged child from India. Her name is Vasanthi Venkataswany and she is a bright third-grade student. Since her family had a difficult time making ends meet, they turned to the Christian Children's Fund for financial aid. Through Sally Struthers, the famous actress and celebrity sponsor of the fund, the Keyettes learned about Vasanthi and agreed to support her. The Key Club also takes part in a similar program. For four years the club has sponsored Yoette Jay Janis, an American Indian living on a government reservation in South Dakota. She is in the third grade and the money pays for her school supplies. How gratifying it is to know that NA students in the Key and Keyette Clubs are helping to brighten the lives of two less fortunate children.

OBSERVE AND ENJOY

BROADWAY — NA STYLE

The Norfolk Academy Players, Orchestra, and Dance Theatre joined for the Rodgers and Hammerstein musical Oklahoma in a performance that proved that theatre arts are "Doing Fine." Jay Evans turned in a brilliant performance as Curly, singing to his diminutive but feisty sweetheart Laurey/Mary Ruffin Hanbury. Gabe Halko's performance as Aunt Eller was realistic and dynamic. Katherine Wallace held the audience spellbound with her superb protrayal of Ado Annie, the "Girl Who Just Can't Say No." Other solid performances were handed in by Steve Sharp (Will Parker), Reiss Wilkes (Ali Hakim), and Steve Hamilton (Jud Frye). The glue that held the musical together was the array of dancers who appeared throughout the show. Craig Garnett led the group of Curly's friends who sang about subjects such as "The Farmer and the Cowman Should be Friends." Led by Beth Shapiro, Laurey's friends brightened up the stage throughout the play. The scenery and costumes for the musical were well thought out and contributed greatly to the vitality of Oklahoma. The stage crew, headed by manager Anne Toewe, put together lights, props, and special effects invaluable to the show. The orchestra, composed of students and friends, overcame difficult practice schedules to complement the actors with its renditions of the numerous musical numbers. This effort, combining all the arts at the Academy, was proof of the verse, "You're doin' fine, Oklahoma."

Guards escort our new Queen, Chris Nelson " (Fanfare as the parade of floats circles the gym. More applause). Sound like the long-awaited Miss Universe pageant? It was, in fact, the beginning of Homecoming weekend, the infamous pep rally and coronation of NA's Homecoming Queen. This spirited gathering headed up a fun-filled time of games and festivities. Friday night saw the JV and Varsity girls' basketball teams defeat Cape Henry while Saturday provided victories in Field Hockey, Soccer and Cross Country. And now for the big game — the Bulldog football team vying against arch-rival St. Chris.

Despite an enthusiastic crowd and a powerful effort, the game ended with the winning margin on the wrong side. No one went home unhappy, however, for the day had been filled with good food, good friends, and good times. To top off the weekend, the Junior Class, with the help of the Cheerleaders and the Keyettes, sponsored a first-ever Homecoming Dance. Attended by over a hundred students and faculty, the function featured music by Twilight. With this new addition and the athletic victories, everyone agreed that this had been the best Homecoming ever!

During the cold, quiet weeks of winter, the Lower School was anything but quiet. On Friday afternoons, fifth and sixth graders learned about subjects ranging from crafts to radio broadcasting from experts in these fields. Led by Riva Stein and Rusty Hagan and put together by numerous Lower School parents, the Clubs Program was expanded this year to include even more out-of-school talent and expertise. Personalities from several radio stations and a cable television company spoke to students in the Radio & TV Club. Artists showed their crafts and cheerleaders taught and brought cheer to their avid audiences. Other clubs, including Medical Science, Self-Defense, Sports, and Stitchery, also entertained students. As one fifth grader said, "Clubs are great!" So who said winter is boring . . .

"You didn't tell me."

An eternity of paddling (plus an unexpected dunking) to thank for
Stiff, sore muscles.
Beaching on an island to wait for the stragglers.
"Stand in the algae — your feet'll be warmer."
"You want me to stand in that green slime??"

The last three miles or so —
Finding new strength for tired arms.
Banking (finally!).
Crawling into the bus and collapsing on the first empty seat.
"Can I borrow some dry clothes?"

The ride home, rolling in at midnight.
"See ya Monday — if I live till then."
"I think my toes have fallen off!"
"I will never, EVER, pick up another paddle as long as I live!!!"

Monday morning.
Twenty zombies roam the halls.
"When does the paralysis wear off?"
One weirdo who thrives on three hours of sleep in two days —
"What is wrong with you all? That was great! Man, when can we go again?"

"You know he's right — it really wasn't that bad."

Guy Fridell addresses a captive audience on Charter Day.

Several times during the year, the Student Council provides events to help students have a change of pace and a taste of the outside world. This year, these events were Charter Day, the Academy Forum, and College Day. Charter Day united the Lower, Middle, and Upper Schools for a day of remembering the school's beginnings. Guy Fridell started things off by telling of his memories of Leonid Brezhev. Throughout the day, Lower School students attended their classes in 1728 dress. To finish the fun, the Tunstall Student Council sponsored an exchange in which Upper Schoolers escorted a student in the first, second, or third grade to refreshments and talk. The Academy Forum brought several speakers to the Upper School. Among these were Kelly Frias, a science fiction artist; and Roxanne Knudson, a sports fiction writer. College Day saw thirty college professors arrive to give students a glimpse of what they could expect in their futures. Speaking on subjects ranging from chemistry to Victorian England, the professors entertained as well as informed students about various topics and college life. Well-received by students and faculty, this day set a precedent for years to come.

Dedication ceremonies for the new Royster classrooms and computer center were held on October 27 in the Conrad Gymnasium. The proceedings opened with a performance by the Brass Quartet under the direction of Mrs. Becker. Next came the Invocation, given by Karl Kottke, President of the Lower School. Mrs. Hopkins welcomed the crowd of alumni, parents, and friends of the school. The Seventh Grade Chorus, under the direction of Mr. Kypros, sang various selections before Mr. John Syer, President of the Board of Trustees, delivered his remarks. Afterwards, Mr. Tucker gave the dedication its official seal of approval, and Mr. Dike closed the ceremonies. Mary Shirley, President of the Seventh Grade, gave the Benediction. Following the dedication, the audience was invited to visit the new facilities. Work on the new wing was done by Mr. Richard Corner from Williams and Tazewell, the firm responsible for NA's first buildings.

Royster choral students entertain those gathered for the dedication.

When some people hear the word "dynasty," they think of Krystle, Fallan, Blake, and Alexis. When the word is uttered in the halls of NA, though, it's invariably used in reference to the girls' varsity lacrosse team. Finishing the regular season undefeated, the Bulldogettes hammered foe after foe and even nipped perennial LIS power Trinity Episcopal 10-8. With leading scorer Elena Barr and captains Mary Via, Pat Wallace, and Ellen Bernert, the girls consistently pushed themselves to become the best that they could be. Lacrosse is singular among contact sports in that it allows the thin and frail to distinguish themselves. Take, for example, Rich Crawford. In less than half a season, he scored 6 goals and handed out 26 assists, impressing coaches so much that they elected him to the All-Prep team. The diminutive Crawford was typical of the varsity lacrosse team. To go undefeated is difficult enough, but to go all through two seasons without a loss borders on the impossible. Still, that's exactly what the girls' JV lacrosse team did. Led by the scoring of Katsias and Hume, the girls posted a 10-0-1 record. Stingy netminder Kay Morgan anchored the defense, which looked most impressive in victories against Marymount and St. Catherine's. The JV boys also had a super season, earning a 9-1 record. Neill Redfern led an offense that outscored the opposition 97 to 33. The one loss, a tough one to St. Chris, was avenged with a fury late in the season as the boys obliterated the Saints, 10-3. These four powerhouse teams, most of whom have a strong return rate, will most assuredly dominate the lacrosse action in this area.

BATTER UP!

Dogs pitch in a good season

When your previous year's record was 4-20, there's only one way to go — Up! And that's exactly what the varsity baseball team tried to do. Although the final tally fell somewhat short of preseason hopes, the Dogs did make real progress toward fulfilling captain David Costenbader's goal of "improving and reaching our potential." The season could perhaps best be described as a time of ups-and-downs. After a big win over Nansemond-Suffolk, the squad had a four-game losing streak, ended by a victory over Walsingham. All the disappointment and hard work seemed to be worth it, however, with the wins over Woodberry and Trinity, the latter being a first-time-ever victory. The JV team fared better during season competition, earning an impressive 10-1 record. Led by pitching ace Chris Dotolo and defensive powerhouse Chris Ciccone, the Baby Bulldogs scored wins over Norfolk Catholic and Churchland. The game against the Truckers was to go down in the record book for duration — three hours! Although distinguished by incredible teamwork, spirit, and determination, the girls' varsity softball team did not rack up a winning season. First-year coach Peggy Havens, a skilled athlete herself, inspired the girls to a never-say-die attitude that helped them through many rough spots during the season. The play of captains Marnet Nash and Sandra Weinstein, pitcher Lisa Fraim, and shortstop Kim Phillips was especially commendable. With another year's experience under their belts and the addition of some fine players from the JV team, '83 will see more victories. That very same JV team, led by the pitching of Suzanna Wardrup, saw a successful year and fulfilled its role as the building block for future varsity teams.

Tennis teams powers in TCIS and VPL

Below: MVP Mary Flippen and teammate Ellen Jaffe enjoy some sun during the doubles matches.

With MVP Jay Andrews at the helm, followed closely by the dynamic duo of Dan Becker and Dean Chadwin, the tennis team enjoyed its share of laughter, highjinks, and success. Continuing a tradition of excellence, the varsity boys not only captured the TCIS championship but also placed in the VPL tourney for the second straight year. The highlight of the season came with Academy's 7-2 win over Kempsville, the number-one public school team, when players had to combat ominous weather as well as formidable foes. In spite of everything, the Dogs displayed fortitude and perseverance, Coach Lindjhem's "keys to success." The JV's had a good year as they practiced skills needed for '83.

Under Coach Harvie, the Baby Bulldogs battled adverse practice and playing conditions. The girls also had a trememdous season, rolling to a 12-1 record. The single loss came at the hands of state power Trinity Episcopal. However, the girls handily defeated everyone else around town and captured the TCIS title in tournament play. The success and strength of the team came primarily from the tough practice sessions planned by Coach Renn, who paid little attention to Mary Flippen's note that "Less Running Makes Better Practices and a Better Team!" Special recognition must go to Mary Flippen, the first-seed player who was also the team's Most Valuable Player for the season.

Track and Golf in top form

Although plagued by injuries all season long, the Girls' Soccer team managed to earn a 5-2-2 record, beating arch-rival Norfolk Collegiate and public school powerhouse Great Bridge. With only one year of existence behind them, the team nevertheless showed a field expertise that belied their youth. The Golf Team, also relatively new at Norfolk Academy, enjoyed another successful year, pushing their record to 14-5 overall. Led by senior Craig Garnett and eighth grader Darryl Potter, the putters earned top honors in almost every contest. Predictions about success made before the season began came to fruition as the team acquitted itself honorably throughout the regular season and during TCIS tourney play. The Track Team, expanded by the addition of a full-fledged girls' squad, continued its tradition of winning, with the boys compiling a 10-2 record and the girls adding two victories to the ledger. The girls were led by Jennifer Ashman, who ran a 5:44 mile; Maraya Goyer, who participated in the field events; and Danielle Reiff, the 880 and 440 relay runner. Other strong contenders were Wendi Willard and Stevie Stecker. For the boys, Bert Carpenter, Kirk LeCompte, Paul Peck, John Russ, and Rob Russ took care of the running while Greg Glasser handled the shot-put and the discus.

Returning only two lettermen, the Bulldog varsity faced a tough assignment. First year head coach Pannenbacker and three-year veteran linebacker Paul Zoby spent countless August hours sweating the inexperienced hopefuls into condition. And the hard work paid off, as quarterback Robbie Stanton teamed with end Garth Forsyth to ignite the offense in the first two games. Unfortunately, the convincing victories belied what was to follow. The next two weeks produced losses to Virginia Prep League schools as the lineup shuffled to fill holes made by injuries. Then the Bulldogs, tied for first in the TCIS, travelled to Nansemond-Suffolk. Although the team failed to ruin the homecoming of the Saints, they succeeded in laying the foundation for the future. Refusing to allow themselves to get discouraged, the team continued to pour their all into losses against Woodberry Forest, Blue Ridge, and Norfolk Catholic. All those involved in the 1982 varsity season will quickly put the scores out of their minds, but the players and coaches will remember the lessons learned and build on them for '83.

The JV football team lost 24 players, 2 managers, and a coach to the varsity between their undefeated 1981 season and the opening of the summer practice in 1982. Furthermore, the Dogs would be facing a much tougher schedule. Prospects were, understandably, bleak. Undaunted, the young Bullpups went to work. Captains Mike Moore, John Darden, and Mike Dekshenieks led the way in the season-opening 34-0 demolition of Broadwater Academy on the Eastern Shore. The JV's next shut down Benedictine in the second half to rally for a 12-12 standoff. As Moore continued to rack up rushing yardage, QB Chris Dotolo began to make "Air Hudgins" more than just a joke. Collegiate and St. Chris fell next before the squad outscored archrival Norfolk Catholic, 18-12. Trinity then went down, under the offensive power of receiver Stock Watson. The final game against Nansemond-Suffolk, however, ended with a victory for the opponent, in spite of the fine play of John Nusbaum, John Merklinger, Paul Conrad, and others. The Junior Orange also faced a tough schedule this year, going against several much larger and more experienced community league teams. Under Head Coach Thomas and Coach Skipper, the boys fought long and hard each week. Although victory eluded them, the Baby Bulldogs always put forth their best effort and earned the respect and admiration of all.

QUEENS OF THE COURT

Under the leadership of tri-captains Mary Flippen, Elizabeth Bowers, and Georgia Kazakis, the girls' basketball team boasted an 18-6 record, their best season under Coach Renn. The highlight of the year came in trouncing arch-rival Norfolk Collegiate to avenge an earlier loss. Remarking on her team's performance, Coach Renn noted that "this year the girls played with a greater intensity." Renn particularly praised Mary Flippen's play and Amy Moss's spirit and team loyalty. In TCIS tourney play, the girls had the misfortune to draw Norfolk Catholic in a early round. Nonetheless, Mary Flippen was named to the All-Tourney team for the third year in a row. The girls' JV squad also had a very successful year. Under Coach Wilmot, the girls compiled an 13-1 record, losing only to Portsmouth Catholic in one of the biggest upsets in Academy history. As far as thrillers went, this team certainly gave the fans a big one by beating Norfolk Catholic by over twenty points in their own gym. Stephanie Trickler described this one event as "the most exciting moment in my life." Both basketball teams, because of their hard work and determination, helped to make girls' athletics a viable force in NA's sports life. With a solid return rate for both teams in the future, plus the return of skilled coaches Renn and Wilmot, 1984 looks like the year when the Dogs will take it all!

Al Steadman's precision passing accounts for another Bulldog success.

At the end of the 1981 soccer season, Coach Sims began planning for the next year. He figured that he should do this because organization would be the only thing going for the squad. After all, the team had graduated seventeen players, nearly the entire starting lineup. Needless to say, when '82 rolled around and saw the Dogs stack up victory after victory, Coach Sims was surprised and pleased. Team work and hustle were the key factors in this Cinderella story of a young team that, just like David, slew Goliath every time it came out on the playing field. The Dogs dominated TCIS play, finishing undefeated in the regular season prior to capturing the tournament championship. The Prep League competition, however, proved a little more difficult, and Academy finished in third place. The JV team had no less a success story, waltzing its way to a 12-3-1 record. Undefeated and untied against all TCIS foes, the Baby Bulldogs outscored their opponents 57-15 and held them to under one goal per game. Outstanding players were Craig Dekshenieks, the top scorer; Jeff Martin, the goalie; Ian Gibson, the center fullback; and Morgan Jenkins, the center halfback.

ON THE RIGHT TRACK

Unparalleled success came to the Cross Country team in '82, with a 12-0 record that led to both the TCIS and VPL regular season championships. Tourney time also proved successful when the runners captured the TCIS title and placed seventh in the state. The Winter Track team, ninety-some strong, was literally off and running right from the beginning. The girls' division went 3-0 in their meets while the boys managed a 2-3 season by defeating Fork Union, as Bobby Harvey set a new record for the mile and Bert Carpenter broke the school record for the 1000-meter run. Angie Ponder, an eighth grader competing on the varsity level, set school records in the 300-meter run, the high jump, and the long jump. Other standouts from the various squads include Jennifer Ashman, Danielle Reiff, Susan Whitelock, Bobby Harvey, John Russ, and Chip Scheible. The end of the season saw a strong performance in the Prep League meet at St. Christopher's.

This was the year that the Field Hockey team had a "First-Ever." During the semi-finals of the LIS tournament, the girls came from behind to tie the game and go into an overtime period that saw NA emerge victorious over Trinity Episcopal (3-1) on penalty stroke scores by Tolli Cooper, Liza Ryan, and Ann-Darby Simpson. Although the finals ended with a 2-1 defeat to Richmond Collegiate, the Trinity win more than made up for any losses. The 10-5-4 season held many other exciting moments and honors: three NA players were selected to the All-Star team (Alicia Scott, Tolli Cooper, and Ann-Darby Simpson), and sophomore stud goalkeeper Denise Katsias carved out 143 saves, allowing only 28 points to be scored against her. This outstanding season was an even greater accomplishment, considering the relative youth of the team. With only five seniors, Coach Shisler had to depend on several Middle School players to start in key positions. Their youth did not get in the way of success, however, for as Coach Shisler noted, "This is the best team that NA has ever fielded in hockey." The JV team, comprised of forty players, also enjoyed a successful season. Beginning the season as a group of inexperienced novices, the girls worked hard on basic skills and field plays until they had mastered the game. This determination led to a season record of 6-5-2, with Cole Stallings being the top scorer (15 goals) for the second year in a row. Coach Havens, noted that "this was the most enthusiastic, school-spirited group of girls" she had ever coached and pointed to the fun of "New Wave Day," "Team Time," and "Stripes Day" to prove her point. Much of the credit for the team's success goes to the leadership provided by sophomore co-captains Courtney Scott and Pam Trimble and the fine play of team members Jenny Drury, Catherine Baillio, Krista Horstman, and goalie Siobhan Cooper.

Alicia Scott beats out her opponent and prepares to send in another score.

DOGS TAKE IT TO THE TOP

Varsity and JV's win TCIS titles

Garth Forsyth, leading scorer in the Tidewater area and NA history, brings the ball down.

From the opening annihilation of Peninsula Catholic to Philip Rachel's devastating rejection in the TCIS championship game, 1983 was a year for records. Garth Forsyth, three-time All-TCIS and All-VPL star, went over 2500 career points. Soph Glenn Youngkin showed flashes of Jabbar-like domination and joined G-man on the All-TCIS squad. While amassing the second highest total of wins in Academy's history, this group of players developed a comaraderie rare among athletic teams. And, though the Bulldog basketball program may never see another Forsyth, there is cause for considerable optimism with the talent that remains — Stanton, Acra, Wetmore, Webb, et. al. Right down to their blue and white uniforms, the JV squad resembled Supermen almost every time they took the floor. Not only could they dazzle opponents with their speed, they could just flat wear 'em out. Once Liles got the fast break going, the Dogs were invincible. Finishing 13-5, the JV's did their part to make Bulldog basketball the best ever.

TCIS CHAMPS AGAIN !

Volleyball victorious

Row 1: A. Trundle, M. Flippen, E. Barr. Row 2: Coach Lindjhem, A. Bartley, M. Shapero, S. Townsend, E. Williamson, G. Milteer, K. Horstman, J. Johnson.

Defending TCIS champs, the Volleyball team began their '83 season with a bang and a first-place finish in the NA Invitational Tip-off Tournament. After such a fast start, the Lady Spikers were stunned by a loss to Portsmouth Catholic but bounced back for a 17-match winning streak that devastated every local team around. Consistent play was a key factor, with Mary Flippen and Marilyn Shapero providing a steady hand to help "dinker" Elena Barr and the other strong Academy players. They finished the regular season in the first-place position and entered the TCIS Tourney ranked number one. The formidable Bulldog lineup proved too awesome for any opponents, and the outcome of the tourney was predictable — the Lady Spikers retained their TCIS title. Mary Flippen and Elena Barr were named to the All-Tourney team and Flippen made MVP.

JO SUCCESSFUL

Question: What player on Norfolk Academy's most dominant team was the school's second leading scorer (behind Garth Forsyth, of course) and top shot blocker? Answer: Glenn Youngkin, right? NO. The correct answer is Brian Root, the ninth grader who led the Junior Orange to a 14-1 record and a conference tournament championship. The passing of point guard Tony "Moves" Montagna, the long-range bombs of Sammy Brooke, and the play of Root, M.V. Whitlow, and Tim Phillips sparked the highest scoring JO team in Academy history. Behind the combination of the enthusiastic Coach Ross and the wily Coach Laws, the junior Bullpups lost only one game. NA basketball in the years A.F. (after Forsyth) may not be so bad after all! Coached by seniors Amy Moss and Mary Flippen, the girls' Junior Orange also enjoyed success and learned fundamentals. Comprised of 6th through 8th graders, the JO's played much older and more experienced teams. Led by JV stud Angie Ponder, the girls hammered their way through many injuries and several tough losses. The boys' 6th and 7th grade team, coached by Miss Liza Kollmansperger, also faced tough foes. In their efforts, however, they showed great determination and courage.

Coming off a 66-3 decimation of Peninsula Catholic, the varsity Grapplers faced three losses against northern Va. schools, primarily because of a lack of manpower in the upper weights. This problem followed the Dogs all season, causing their dual record meet to be a less-than-accurate indication of the team's power. Going into the TCIS Tournament with a 7-7 dual match record, the wrestlers placed second. 1st place went to John Darden, Jimmy Miller, Grant Kiehl, and Brian Miller, also voted the tourney's outstanding wrestler. The following weekend saw NA in the VPL tourney, where the number 2 rolled up again for the Bulldogs. This time Kiehl and (Brian) Miller won first places. Wrestling on the JV level is not a competitive sport in the traditional/usual sense, for the major emphasis is to provide experience rather than tally season records. Full-scale matches were few, but those the junior grapplers did compete in saw victories for the young Bulldogs. Carrying a 3-4 record into the Prep League tourney, the Dogs took third as Carver and Taylor won their weight divisions.

GYMNASTICS

How many teams can boast of a world-champion body builder for a coach? The NA Gymnastics team can, in the person of Lynn Conkwright. Taking her young team in hand and putting them through strenuous exercises and strengthening routines, Coach Conkwright put together a highly successful season. With an opening victory over Wilson, the Tumblers overcame such opponents as Southampton, Northampton, and Churchland. Losses were by small margins — 7/10 of a point against Deep Creek, 3 points against 5-yr. Southeastern District champ Western Branch. Strong performances were consistently turned in by Jamie Dare, Tiffany Stagg, and Lauren Wainger (tri-captains) as the squad completed a 8-3 season. Of course, the standout of every meet was "The Lizard" — diminutive Liz Costenbader, who earned eleven first-all-arounds. With a strong lineup of veterans for next year, Coach Conkwright can look forward to building a dynasty. In its three years of existence, the Swimming Team has had to overcome some incredible obstacles, most notably those wee hour practices caused by the lack of pool facilities. Nonetheless, 1983 saw the Dog Paddlers come into their own. Headed by Coaches Marchionda and Sims, the swimmers firmly launched their season with victories in the Relay Carnival. From then on, it was easy. Opponents tumbled as smoothly as water flows off a duck's back. One by one, both the male and the female contingents drowned their foes on their way to 7-0 seasons and nine school records. Katie Elder set records in the 50, 200, and 500-yard freestyles, Susan Whitelock topped the 100-yard butterfly, David Hope took the 200 and 500-yard freestyles, and Richard Koch set records in the 200-yard individual medley and the 100-yard breaststroke. VAIS Meet time came and the outcome was commendable: the girls took second place and the boys finished fourth.
